UNIVERSITY OF WARSAW

POLAND

Poland is situated in the Central Europe. It shares land borders with Germany, Slovakia, the Czech Republic, Ukraine, Belarus, Lithuania and Russia (Kaliningrad District). The Northern border is the Baltic Sea coastline. Poland is the ninth largest country in Europe.

Poland is famous as the epitome of the democratic transition and the third way of democratization. Member of the EU since May 1st 2004, Poland offers far more than the exotics of a post-communist state rising up to the standards of Western democracies. After all, Poland is a huge state with a population of over 38 millions and an economy that grows.

WARSAW

Warsaw is the capital city, situated in the heart of Poland.

Warsaw is now one of the most dynamic cities in the region. Many international companies choose it as the seat for their activities. Warsaw is the focal point for government business, private business operations, as well as the arts. Naturally enough, Warsaw's population is supplemented by a big expatriate population of professionals and students. This melting-pot obviously produces a richness of things to see, places to go, and people to meet. There is an immense expatriate community in Warsaw and all foreigners feel welcome. Warsaw is a city of many faces. Whoever chooses to become its insider will never come to regret the choice.

UNIVERSITY OF WARSAW

University of Warsaw (UW) was established in 1816 as the Royal University of Warsaw, and the largest in Poland. From the beginning the University of Warsaw has played a major role in the intellectual, political, and cultural life of Poland. Dynamic political, social, and economic changes accompanying Poland's democratisation have brought the University new opportunities and challenges. Interest in studying at UW results above all from the University's prestige – something UW has earned through the high educational level it offers and the research work.

Today, UW provides educational services for over 54.000 students, 3.000 doctoral students, 7.000 postgraduate students, and employs over 6.200 employees. They are divided for over 20 faculties and more than 30 centers. The University is divided into 3 main campuses – in Ochota (Natural Sciences), Mokotów (Management, Linguistics, European Studies), and the Main Campus as well as a number of locations spread throughout the city centre (Sociology, International Relations, Economics). The Main Campus hosts inter alia the Faculty of Law and Administration and is rapidly expanding through the Powiśle District down to the Vistula River.

FACULTY OF LAW AND ADMINISTRATION

The Faculty of Law and Administration is one of the oldest faculties at the University of Warsaw. The School of Law and Administration was established in 1811 and was incorporated by the newly established Royal University of Warsaw and the Faculty of Law and Administration.

After liberation in 1918, Republic of Poland nourished colossal developments of the Polish statehood and University of Warsaw alike. The dynamic growth of the University and its Faculty of Law and Administration was stopped when the Secret Faculty Council took all necessary decisions, defined the functions of institutes and ran clandestine courses as most other faculties of the University of Warsaw. The University has renewed its activity in May 1945. In July 1945, the Faculty of Law started teaching activities as well.

THE PRESENT →

FACULTY OF LAW AND ADMINISTRATION IN THE PRESENT

There are about 6.000 students of 1st, 2nd and single cycle students, numerous postgraduate students as well as few hundreds of PhD students at the Faculty of Law and Administration. Educational services for law and administration students and number of postgraduate students are provided. These make the Faculty the largest Law Faculty in Poland.

OUR BUILDINGS

The Faculty is based in five buildings.

01

The first and the oldest, the Leon Petrażycki Building is our historical headquarter, named after the one of the most world-famous philosophers and lawyers. After major renovation in 2010, the Building hosts the Dean's Office, administration offices, seminar rooms, and four departments: the Department of Civil Law, the Department of History of Law, the Department of Jurisprudence, and the Department of Penal Law.

02

The Collegium Iuridicum II was opened in 1998. It hosts lecture rooms as well as a number of Schools of Foreign Law.

03

Further, in 2005 the Collegium Iuridicum III was opened. The Building hosts the Faculty Library and the Department of Legal and Administrative Theory.

04

In 2011 the Cezary Berezowski Building was opened and hosts the Department of International Law and guests rooms.

*

We also use some lecture and seminar rooms in the Building of Old Library and Auditorium Maximum. Student's Office is situated in d. CIUW Building.

ERASMUS+

The Faculty of Law and Administration maintains relations within the framework of Erasmus+ Programme with nearly 90 partner law faculties.

We continuously develop our international relations.

Every year we send abroad over 120 students, doctoral students and staff, and accept over 70 international ones. Moreover, we also provide some academic staff exchange. We also cooperate with some American, British, and German universities, and other institutions worldwide.

COURSES

Exchange students are free to choose among the selection of courses offered by the Faculty and the University. Our Faculty offers a wide range of lectures and classes in English. Many regular courses are held in English, however students who feel confident in Polish can take regular classes. Those who develop a particular interest in some area of Polish law can benefit from tutorials with professors who have expertise in the subject.

Polish language and culture, on the other hand, are taught at the University's Centre of Polish Language and Culture for Foreigners "Polonicum".
